

Food security alarm in the shadow of wheat imports

Wheat, as the most important strategic commodity in the world, is one of the products that most countries have specific programs for production and self-sufficiency in agriculture. The country because of lack of support for domestic farmers in the purchase of wheat this year of self-sufficiency in wheat to wheat importer became .

Dr. Shayan Naderi: In times of boycott and economic warfare, the country's foreign exchange resources are spent in the government in support of foreign farmers. Wheat, as the most important strategic commodity in the world, is one of the products that most countries have specific programs for production and self-sufficiency in agriculture. In our country due to lack of support from domestic farmers in the purchase of wheat this year of self-sufficiency in wheat to wheat importer became.

In February last year, Hojati, a former Minister of Jihad and Agriculture, was warned by experts that the current practice of not supporting domestic farmers in discussing the supply of needed wheat would be imported. According to the Note of the Crop Guarantee Act, the government is required to set a crop guarantee rate before the start of the crop season in such a way that the inflation rate never increased. The central bank is no less, but unfortunately in recent years it has not been addressed for various reasons.
