

Implementing a Wheat Participatory Selection Plan

Wheat participatory selection scheme is implemented in Qirokarzin.

Head of Crop Management Department of Agricultural Department of Qirokarzin said: Wheat PVS project or participatory selection scheme will be designed and implemented at a level of 5,000 square meters of the lands of Afzar in the city.

Abdul Hamid Ahmadi added: One of the goals of this project is to select and compare the digit that has the highest performance at the level.

He pointed out that the ripening time, quality, reduction of pest, and disease resistance will also be compared in the implementation of the PVS program of wheat, so that finally the most economical type of wheat will be selected as seed and given to farmers.