

Plan for next year's wheat supply on the commodity exchange

Hedayatollah Khademi stated that the problems related to the guaranteed purchase of wheat and the government budget constraints tell us that it is time to supply the wheat on the stock market. And consider long-term supply. It should be noted, however, that the introduction of this strategic product on the stock exchange requires some preliminary data, which will see a positive development in the agricultural sector.

The representative of the people of Izeh and Baghmalk in the Islamic Consultative Assembly disapproved of the government intervention in the purchase of wheat and the possibility of using modern financial instruments to highlight the important advantages of supplying wheat in the commodity exchange and added: The most important effect of the bids is to ensure that Farmer has the potential to sell the product on the stock market and if the market price is lower than the government rate of interest in the first place. Receives two days from the exchange Secondly, the government pays the farmer about the difference between the rate of interest and the rate of interest.

He emphasized: The commodity exchange has played an important role in regulating the market and transparency over the past years, while making the discovery of commodity prices more equitable and because of the competition and realization of markets, it has become possible for producers to predict. It should be borne in mind that the supply of agricultural products, including wheat on the commodity exchange, in addition to competition, brings a quality and affordable product to the agricultural market.

Member of Parliament's Energy Commission said: Commodity exchange is one of the four stock exchanges in the country and one of the pillars of the local capital market that has positive effects on the market and economy of the country, especially reducing corruption because of the mechanism that exists in the capital market. They are required to submit their quarterly financial statements and financial forecasts on codec, which will increase both company efficiency and financial transparency.
